Victory in Christ

Horatius Cocles (a Roman soldier) once stood alone on a bridge, holding off an entire advancing army so his people could dismantle the bridge behind him. He wasn't the strongest or fastest—but he was committed. He stood firm and became a symbol of victory against the odds.

In Christ, we are more than conquerors—not because of our strength, but because of His power working through us. Even when the odds seem overwhelming, victory is ours in Him.
